Resident Alien (code = RA) is used for an alien admitted to the U.S. under a permanent immigration visa. This designation may also apply to an alien whose purpose in coming to the U.S. may require an extended stay, or who has no definite intention as to the length of stay, and who establishes a home in the U.S. An “extended stay” for a foreign student, or a Cultural and Educational Exchange Program participant, is generally two full years or more without leaving the U.S., or one full year or more for other aliens with a limited visa. A foreign student who leaves the U.S. during the summer vacation periods is not considered a resident alien.

A foreign student with any valid visa type (other than RA) listed in STVVTYP is considered a nonresident alien (i.e., an alien admitted to the U.S. under a temporary visa for a definite period of time, whose status is that of a transient or sojourner, and who does not establish a home in the U.S.).
